

Permit Application
1.	Why do I need to apply for a Rice Permit? A permit is required for the importation or exportation of rice in Singapore. For your details, please visit Singapore Customs website.
2.	How do I apply for a Rice Permit? You may visit TradeNet, Singapore's National Single Window for trade declaration, to apply for a Rice Permit. You are required to have a registered Corppass account.
3.	What is Harmonised System (HS) Code? Harmonised System (HS) Code is an international standardised numerical method for classification of goods. The codes are categorised based on the type of licence applied.
4.	How do I check the Harmonised System (HS) Code for my licence? You may refer to the licence certificated issued or visit Rice Portal for a general list of HS codes issued for the different type of licences.
5.	I declared the wrong Harmonised System (HS) code in my permit. How do I make the necessary amendments? You are required to re-submit a new permit because controls are built in TradeNet to reject permits with HS codes different from their rice licence.
6.	My permit is rejected. Why? You may refer to the rejection code in your permit and visit Rice Portal for the detailed explanations. Please resubmit a new permit with the necessary amendments made.
7.	I have accidentally submitted duplicated permits. What should I do? Please drop us an email at rice@enterprisesg.gov.sg for further assistance.
